The Flagman & John Fugelsang: The Flagman was John Fugelsang's first encounter on his road trip retracing Alexis de Tocqueville's journey. The Flagman's job as a commercial printer was outsourced to China, so he now makes a living selling American Flags that are made in China.

Boston Protests: Outside the Housing Court in Boston, residents are protesting the foreclosures and evictions that still persist years after the housing bubble burst in 2008.

Tumaini Homeless Shelter: There are so many destitute, homeless people in Detroit that the Tumaini Homeless Shelter can only provide the residents with plastic chairs for sleeping.

Quicken Loans & John Fugelsang: The billionaire founder of Quicken Loans bought 60 buildings in downtown Detroit and invested $1.3 billion to restore them. John Fugelsang reviews plans for the city's revitalization with Eric Larson.
